1. Caring for Children

“The Loddon School’s purpose is to provide value in the education and care of children with autism, severe learning disabilities and associated complex restrictive behaviours, by giving each child an enhanced quality of life in partnership with parents and through creative design, development and delivery of positive working methods by an excellent team”.

This statement of purpose sets out our aims and objectives, philosophy of education and care, and the range of facilities and the services we offer to our children.

The Loddon School is registered for children from the ages of 8-19 and provides a service wholly or mainly for children under the age of 18.

Referrals and admissions occur throughout the year and at any age. Referrals are made by local authority placement officers, social workers or education officers. Parents and families are invited to visit the home if the leadership team consider The Loddon School may be an appropriate placement for the child.

The Loddon School admits children who use extreme challenging behaviour, known at Loddon as restrictive behaviour (behaviour that restricts the individual’s opportunities to learn or develop), severe and complex learning difficulties and usually autism.

Most individuals will have been excluded from their local special school or will have been separated from the rest of the class or assigned extra staff. Individuals will have used their restrictive behaviours to avoid class-based activities and will find formal classroom teaching aversive. They are often resistant to perceived demands and lack motivation to learn new skills. For many children residential respite provision will have broken down and the family situation will most often have become too difficult to sustain.

Pupils are assessed against the home’s “Essential Criteria for Admission” which includes a wide list of restrictive behaviours. To be considered for admission to The Loddon School, individuals will use a range of these behaviours.

All pupils have a statement of SEN and many have additional diagnoses of epilepsy, ADHD or other health needs. All pupils need high levels of adult support both day and night to keep them safe.

Pupils admitted to The Loddon School will continue to need a high level of individual support into adulthood and throughout their lives. The home has a Transition Coordinator who supports families through the process of admission into and transition out of the home.

Most individuals are non-verbal and on admission have few strategies for making their needs known beyond using a range of restrictive behaviours. Those who have some speech or single words may use these in social situations but often without meaning or understanding. Often individuals need time to process information.

Many individuals experience extreme anxiety that manifests itself in a variety of behaviours such as aggression, flopping to the ground, running off, laughing inappropriately, perceived non-cooperation, making loud noises, inappropriate removal of clothing, incontinence or sleep difficulties.

The individuals have difficulties making sense of their world and have little awareness of events beyond their own experiences. They have few social skills. They are unable to understand concepts or respond appropriately to the consequences of their behaviours.

Although the Loddon School is registered as a single home for 30 children, it is organised into seven smaller living and learning houses each for an average of 4 young people, with two additional places being reserved to facilitate shorter notice admissions or delayed transitions. The home has the ability to quickly reconfigure a living space to create a self-contained flat should the needs arise. This would be suitable for a young person who might need more space from their peers in either the short or long term.

Each young person has their own bedroom, decorated to their preference and needs. All houses have been either purpose built or adapted to meet the needs of the children who live there.

The Loddon School is set in a rural location, with expansive grounds that provide the young people with necessary space. On site the home has an indoor swimming pool, leisure barn, paddocks and vegetable gardens and designated outside spaces for play and relaxation.

The Loddon School is committed to providing a positive, nurturing and enabling environment in which all children and young people can make progress.

The home does not accept emergency admissions.

Family arrangements

Children who are able usually go home for an overnight stay approximately every third weekend; there is, however, no insistence on the part of The Loddon School for this to occur. Children can stay at The Loddon School each and every day of the year if needed. If family are unable to transport their child, we can provide supported day home visits if this is preferred, as part of the plan to support a child and their family.

Children who go home for weekends or short home visits can come back to The Loddon school at any time if the visit is proving too difficult or stressful for the child or the family.

The Loddon School does not allow visitors on Christmas Day; we ask that no one comes into the home to visit their child on The Loddon School site. Families are welcome to collect their child and take them home or out for the day on Christmas Day. They may also be brought back to Loddon throughout Christmas day. This is so that the children that remain at Loddon on Christmas day can have an enjoyable day. Seeing family visit other children can cause some of our children to become upset and distressed. It also takes staff focus away from making the day special for our children and themselves.

Parents are welcome to visit during the day and at weekends, although it is advisable to let us know if a visit is anticipated so that we can ensure the child is not offsite.

Families can make use of the facilities the home has to offer or take their child off site for an outing. The home can offer staff support for these visits if requested, in advance.

The home also supports positive relationships between children and families through regular phone calls home and weekly letters from the children and family events.

The driving force of The Loddon School ethos is to set students on a positive: -

Pathway to a Fulfilling Life

Every child, however disabled, is entitled to develop in an environment which is conducive to learning. This environment should be one that is safe, caring and enjoyable and where children may grow in confidence, independence and towards personal fulfilment.

The Loddon School offers opportunities to children who have the most severe learning disabilities and autism, in addition to other difficulties and medical conditions, to relate, communicate and participate in everyday life as fully as possible.

The environment should be one in which each child feels secure, enjoys learning and is always rewarded for effort. This can be realised only when all staff are relating to each child in a positive way and all aspects of the child's needs are being met through the integration of school, home and leisure activities and community experience.

Staff will preserve and maintain the dignity, individuality and privacy of all pupils within a warm and caring atmosphere, and in so doing will be sensitive to the individual's changing needs. Such needs may be medical / therapeutic (for physical and emotional well-being), cultural, psychological, spiritual, and social.

Staff will support individuals to discover their likes and dislikes and develop strategies for self-expression by concentrating on the key areas of decision-making and communication. In order to develop these skills, staff will support pupils to make choices which may involve a certain element of risk, to encourage an awareness of danger and the recognition of natural consequences.

Due to their severe learning and communication difficulties our children are not able to be consulted in the usual ways.

Personalised resources are provided which reflect their preferred communication methods. These include photographs, communication books, picture exchange, real objects, objects of reference, symbols (for concepts) and staff trained in the use of Makaton signing.

1.1 Approaches and Outcomes

1.1.1 Approach

All these aims and objectives are designed to achieve a consistent approach to meeting the children and young people's needs- an approach in which the children and young people, the staff and the parents / advocates may work together to achieve a common goal. Loddon's approach is enshrined in the philosophies of PROACT-SCIPr-UK® and delivered through PLLUSS.

The Loddon School aims to:

- Provide consistent education and support throughout the waking day with a fully integrated and multi- disciplinary staff team, fully trained and with DBS clearance.
- To ensure all staff are committed to the philosophy of the home, which was founded to provide a personalised, positive environment using only proactive approaches.
- Provide access for all pupils to the school's approach to teaching and learning - Personalised Learning for Life Using Supportive Strategies (PLLUSS). This is a functional curriculum that develops personalised programmes of learning to meet the needs of the pupils.
- Monitor and record progress through PLLUSS Curriculum Assessments, externally accredited AQA Unit Award Scheme certificates, ASDAN and teacher assessment.
- Meet pupils' needs in all aspects of daily living and independence and set achievable goals to ensure positive progress.
- Meet each pupil's spiritual, emotional and physical needs.
- Ensure that each pupil has access to music, communication skills teaching, positive interaction and sensory opportunities.
- Use the most appropriate positive teaching styles suited to each pupil.
- Work in collaboration with parents / advocates and placing authorities to ensure the highest standard of service is provided at all times.
- Ensure that parents can share fully in the life of the school and home, through regular communication, joint goal setting, planning, reporting and reviews, case conferences and other planned parents' events.
- Collate and analyse data regularly to provide information for measuring progress and evaluating the methods used in the school.
- Jointly plan post-Loddon School placement and offer training and support for staff who will work with the children and young people after they leave the school.

1.1.2 Outcomes for Children

- Develop pupils' communication skills by offering a wide range of communication experiences and opportunities in their natural setting. Pupils have access to photographs, objects of reference, signing and electronic communicators.
- Develop the pupil's awareness of his or her own surroundings and increase their ability to use everyday objects and resources, and to enhance social skills.
- Teach life skills that improve self-esteem, respect for others and enhance the quality of life in further placements and in adulthood.
- Provide opportunities for the pupils to make informed choices to enhance their quality of life.
- Design individual educational programmes to reduce or replace restrictive behaviours through the use of functional analysis of the most restrictive behaviours and the teaching of replacement skills.
- Teach pupils ways to manage their own behaviours and develop coping strategies
- Pupils have an entitlement to a broad and balanced curriculum that provides learning opportunities for developing core skills and includes dignity, respect, community presence, communication and choice, accessed through activities of daily living, independence, relationships and managing emotions.
- Loddon School is fully committed to meeting the specific communication needs of our children and providing the appropriate individualised support to enable them to take control over as much of their own lives as possible.
- Children are encouraged and supported to make selections throughout their daily lives. The focus of choice is often food or drink, activities, toys, books, magazines or clothing.

Recreation and Leisure

Children have after school clubs within and outside school and planned theme events are held on site at weekends.

There are 8 vehicles available to enable children to access local community facilities such as shopping centres, bowling and leisure complexes and the cinema.

Making Friendships

Children who come to Loddon often find other people difficult to be with and may prefer the company of staff who are more predictable than their peers. Children are encouraged to tolerate their peers and to interact with each other through shared preferred activities. If children are engaged in a strongly motivating activity, they may be less anxious about the presence of others. Lots of opportunities are created to enable children to build trusting relationships with their peers in situations in which they feel safe and relaxed.

Children are given opportunities to attend clubs and social events in the community, transferring the skills they have learned at Loddon into a community setting.

Cultural and Celebration Events

All major cultural or religious festivals are celebrated throughout the year.

Each child celebrates their birthday and has a cake and a party. A variety of other days are celebrated throughout the year especially at weekends, following multi-cultural themes and occasionally to fund raise for other charities e.g., Red Nose Day. During August there are a variety of fun days.

Sharing with Families

Parents and families are invited to a picnic/barbecue day in Spring/Summer and together with the local community to the annual celebration concert in December. Parents and families are welcome to visit at any time and enjoy the on-site facilities with their child.

1.2 Anti-Discriminatory Practice and Children's Rights

1.2.1 Sexuality

Young people at Loddon will experience day to day life at a very early cognitive level while experiencing the emotions and feelings typical of someone of their chronological age. While upholding each young person's right to express their sexuality in private, it is important to recognise the very real challenges associated with developing an understanding of sex and relationships experienced by young people in the School. The subject must always be approached with sensitivity.

Education in this area will focus on body awareness, (understanding the need to keep parts of the body covered and tolerance of wearing clothing to maintain one's dignity), appropriate touch including appropriate greetings, and the need for privacy.

Staff may sensitively redirect young people to their bedroom, remodel inappropriate physical contact into a more positive gesture or offer clothing or blanket to maintain dignity. All staff are expected to adhere to the Staff Dress Code which ensures that pupils are not put at risk by being given mixed messages.

1.2.2 Children's Rights

Independence

Children should be encouraged and assisted to do things for themselves, no matter how minimal their contribution may be, so that the work we do helps to prepare them for independent living. It is important that children are given time to process information and do things for themselves.

Inclusion

Children should enjoy as many of the opportunities available to people not disabled by learning disabilities and the problems associated with autism, enabling them to lead as full and active a life as possible.

Privacy

Children have the right to privacy. The degree of privacy allowed has to be weighed against the risk factors involved for the individual child.

Dignity

Dignity is the response the individual feels, when other people show respect. All living and learning experiences should dignify the pupil.

Rights

Children's rights, under the UN Convention Article 23, affirm the rights of children with disabilities and learning difficulties to special care, education and training designed to help them achieve the greatest possible self-reliance and to lead to a full and active life in society.

Choice

Every effort is made to enable children to participate in decision-making, to influence what happens to them and the care they receive, e.g., the clothes they wear, menu choice at mealtimes or leisure activities.

Fulfilment

The Loddon School believes that every child, however disabled, is equally entitled to develop in an environment that is conducive to relevant learning.

Security

Children are kept safe from harm, self-harm and abuse.

Respect

Being respectful shows the individual child that he/ she is valued as a person and important as an individual.

Equality

The Loddon School endeavours to ensure genuine equality of opportunity.

Religion

The Loddon School recognises the rights of the individual child to live the lifestyle of his/her choosing, subject to an appropriate health and safety risk assessment of the individual.

Children may attend religious services either within or outside the home as they are able to participate.

Children have the right to meet the clergy of their chosen denomination at any time. Family members within specific cultures and religions are encouraged to come to school and share their experiences with the whole school.

1.3 Views Wishes and Feelings

Because of the nature of their communication difficulties, a great amount of staff support and interpretation is needed for children to be able to give feedback on the quality of their care.

Children are encouraged to communicate their feelings using communication resources, including the Children's Guide and the child friendly Complaints Policy. Both of these resources are pitched to an appropriate level of understanding, and staff support the children to use these to give feedback.

We also understand that behaviour is a form of communication for our young people, so we take note of behaviours to try to establish what message is being put across by this young person.

1.4 Safeguarding and Keeping Children Safe

1.4.1 Children Running Off

At the Loddon School high staffing ratios ensure that children are supervised at all times to keep them safe. Children at The Loddon School typically have little idea of their own personal safety and in some instances will attempt to leave the site. The Loddon School has a procedure which summarises the arrangements in place to find a child who has run off and is lost. We run major incident drills, so that staff are familiar with the procedure to be followed when a child is missing off site.

The home and its staff minimise this risk by carefully locking gates, locking doors that are meant to be locked, setting door and other alarms. All external doors can be accessed only through an electronic keypad or magnetic fobs which can be overridden in the event of fire.

The main entrance to the school site has automatic gates that operate as a car approaches them.

1.4.2 Electronic Surveillance

We have placed CCTV in the living areas of children's house. This enables us to capture children displaying their restrictive behaviours and staff's response to these. This is used for the purposes of safeguarding the children's welfare and supporting improvements in the children's positive behaviour support plans. Additionally, when appropriate, we intend to use this resource with other professionals for the benefit of our children. This may include allowing other professionals to view the footage to show them the characteristics of behaviour. This aids professional's understanding of behaviours which can be useful in determining future health care, behavioural support or care provision.

Examples of professionals that may view this resource include children's social workers, medical professionals or potential future care provider assessors.

The positioning and angling of the cameras is respectful of the children's privacy and dignity; it does not view into bedrooms or bathrooms.

Separate to the CCTV in children's living areas, Loddon uses cameras in other staff-based areas, for example, the main kitchen and cleaning cupboard as a measure of securing The Loddon School® property.

Loddon uses a fob entry system. When staff enter the houses with their fobs, it acknowledges that they have entered. These safeguard both children and staff.

We have a waking night staff in each house throughout the night, this safeguards the children's safety and welfare throughout the night. The night staff check the children regularly throughout the night as specified in their individual care plan and risk assessment. A member of night staff is in the house at all times throughout the night.

Light switches for some children's bedrooms are fitted to the outside of the room. In some accommodation variable settings allow staff to check the welfare of a child using low light levels to avoid disturbing a child's sleep. Some children prefer to sleep with a light on; this preference is respected.

The above systems are used in accordance with data protection law and in line with The Loddon School® Privacy notices.

1.4.3 Fire and Emergency Procedures

In order to provide a safe place of work with safe access and egress, where fire safety risks are minimised, with safe systems and a safe workforce, all staff will receive information, instruction, training and supervision.

The home conducts an annual fire risk assessment and regular checks which cover its evacuation procedures, testing and maintenance of all safety and firefighting equipment.

1.4.4 Bullying Policy

Supporting our Children with Challenging Behaviour and Children who Hurt Each Other

The Loddon School provides care and education for children with very special needs usually associated with autism. This means they are likely to hurt themselves (SIB), be destructive, put themselves at risk or hurt other people. Staff are prepared for this through PROACT-SCIPr-UK®, to minimise incidents and protect themselves and others.

Children may be aggressive towards each other. Staff must be aware of this potential and try all strategies to avoid injury to children. Staff should position themselves between a distressed child and other children. Space pads may be used for passive protection / as a barrier. Triggers to such attacks include for example noise, change of plan in the timetable, transitions, wanting the activity of another child, not wanting other children in the setting or perceived demands.

In such situations staff should plan to give the child space and be proactive about this so that injury does not occur. It is important to plan the detail of every activity to avoid known risks (especially where particular individuals are not compatible) and every staff member should be familiar with the Risk Assessment and Behaviour Support Guidelines for the individuals they are working with.

If staff feel that a child is likely to display such aggression it is important to give the child space immediately. For example, they may like to run around in the outside play areas, spend time in their bedroom or the entrance area or go to another area/space.

If a child injures another child, the children should be separated with the focus for overt attention being the child who has been hurt. In the action plan, following the incident, staff should review and plan to reduce such incidents with additional behaviour support guidelines.

If any child is injured, it is important to give the child maximum levels of care and attention as the child is likely to suffer shock and will need reassurance. It may be that they will need time and space away from other children.

After such an incident it is important to record in the Incident and Accident Books, to seek advice from the nurse/first aider and to report to the G.P. if there is broken skin. Parents and social workers (when involved) will be informed as soon as possible, in most cases by the house Teacher or Children's Services Manager.

All staff should be aware that injuries to children are always serious and all steps should be taken to protect all the children from such incidents.

Safeguarding and Bullying

Safeguarding children and young people at Loddon School is an integral part of our proactive approach as the safety of our children is paramount.

Designated Safeguarding Lead
(Vice Principal, Registered Manager)

Tim Clark

Designated Deputies

Jo Emerson
Alison Beaven
Kelly Simpson

They are supported by a Safeguarding Team made up of the Principal, Positive Behaviour Support Manager and Head of Staff Professional Development.

Before staff are employed:

Prospective employees are questioned at interview on child protection issues. Recruits are employed only on receipt of satisfactory references with authorship confirmed. They are not allowed to start work until their DBS check has been completed and cleared. Any convictions are risk assessed before employment is confirmed.

Training:

New staff will be mentored by experienced staff during their first month. All staff receive 4 sessions of training regarding safeguarding.

- Orientation - first day
- Induction training - within the first month
- Generic training – within first 6 months
- Team training – an annual refresher often relating specifically to those children in that house
- Staff practice is monitored and reflected on during supervisions with line managers when any identified additional training needs will be discussed

Information available for staff:

Staff are given the Safeguarding Policy and training information in verbal and written format and the 'Working Together to Safeguard Children' book is also available in the Staff Room. The Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy and the Challenging Behaviour Policy are also available for staff and other relevant persons to access on the school website. The Designated Safeguarding Lead and Vice Principal, Principal, and the Leadership Team have an 'open door' policy for staff to talk to at any time. Phone numbers are also available for the Chair of Trustees, the Local Safeguarding Children Board and our Independent Advocates.

Risk Assessment and Support Guidelines

The children at Loddon School each have individual support guidelines. These give advice for staff to follow when working with the individuals, particularly when supporting children who may engage in restrictive behaviours to get their needs met. This may include physical interventions as a last resort. These are agreed and signed off by parents and social workers.

As part of the PROACT-SCIPr-UK® training curriculum staff are taught relevant physical interventions to enable them to use these safely when necessary. Staff are refreshed and assessed on these annually through annual refresher training.

2. Children's Behaviour

2.1 Approaches and Outcomes

2.1.1 Positive Behaviour Support

The Loddon School's philosophy is founded in PROACT-SCIPr-UK® and the PLLUSS school curriculum. These approaches emphasise learning and opportunities to enhance the quality of life of each child and young person in the school using the following non-aversive methods:

- Positive approaches and personalised learning which achieve an enhanced quality of life for the children and young people.
- A truly personalised individual timetable based on a functional curriculum which reduces stress and anxiety and prepares the children and young people for as independent a life as possible.
- Positive reinforcement, which rewards every attempt the children and young people make to learn.
- Total communication which includes body language, photographs, speech, signs and some symbols.
- Photographic communication aids which enable the children and young people to take some control over their choices and decision making and help with transitions and understanding of routines.
- Massage and other therapies, which encourage trust, self-awareness and reciprocity.
- Multi-sensory activities which offer opportunities to explore and re- create the experiences of typical early development and addresses sensory deficits and needs.
- Physical exercise which improves health, reduces excess uncontrolled energy and can be extended to participation in community-based activities.
- Community experience and inclusion activities which ensure as full a life as possible in the least restrictive environment.
- Music, performing arts and visual arts which extend emotional growth, leisure skills and sharing, without the limitations of speech.
- Spiritual education, including multi-sensory assemblies, which encourages the children and young people to enjoy relationships and develop a sense of awareness of self and others and a sense of awe and wonder.

- Celebration days which provide children and young people with experiences from their own and other cultures.
- Visiting musicians and other artists that extend the experiences of children and young people within the safe school environment.
- Personal and social education which equips the children and young people with skills for life now and as an adult.
- Risk assessment and behaviour support guidelines for each child and young person. These are written by staff for staff, approved by the parents and funding authorities and provide guidance in non-aversive proactive, active and reactive supportive strategies.
- Continuous professional development which ensures that all staff possess the appropriate knowledge and up-to-date skills needed to effectively meet the needs of the children and young people including professional qualifications and accreditation.
- Parent support and training, which in turn enables parents to support their own child successfully during home visits, and to ensure consistent and safe methods,

3. Education

3.1 Approaches & Outcomes

3.1.1 PLLUSS

Approaches

Personalised Learning for Life Using Supportive Strategies is an approach developed by staff at The Loddon School, within the philosophy of PROACT-SCIPr-UK®, to engage pupils in activities which both meet their learning needs and motivates them enough to want to repeat experiences.

The whole approach involves a structured process of assessment, analysis and the planning of positive learning opportunities for the individual. PLLUSS is essentially person-centred but “teacher”-led. Chosen activities focus on what the pupil finds highly motivating but have clearly defined learning outcomes, identified by the “teacher”.

All experiences are provided within a positive, communication-centred environment, designed to maximise the pupil’s quality of life by teaching the most useful skills for life throughout the waking day, some of which will focus on replacing unwanted or restrictive (challenging) behaviours.

This positive approach will benefit pupils who are apparently “non-cooperative” or de-motivated, particularly those who use their behaviour to escape from or avoid situations.

Essentially it is intended for young people working at P levels, but the approach has wider potential applications.

Such pupils will have significant communication difficulties both in understanding language and in expressing themselves through language. They may experience confusion and high levels of anxiety because of their difficulties with making sense of the world around them.

Typically, they may have a history of negative experiences, of “failure”, or of being excluded from settings, possibly because of their apparent incompatibility with a group but most often because of their behaviour. They may withdraw from situations or become hyperactive or use aggression.

Many will find relating and interacting with other people difficult or even unimportant and will look for predictability, support and security through routines.

Outcomes

PLLUSS aims to reduce a pupil’s need to use restrictive behaviours through teaching alternative, replacement or coping skills that enable them to satisfy their needs in a more appropriate and socially acceptable way.

PLLUSS is essentially designed to teach functional learning skills which will help pupils to maximise their potential and achieve a positive quality of life. Through positive experiences, successes and achievements the person will develop a sense of self-worth and recognise that people want to be with them.

Within a positive, structured environment a pupil can be calm and relaxed enough to respond to experiences and opportunities offered. Anxiety, confusion and the need to use restrictive behaviours will be reduced while communication and understanding are enhanced.

PLLUSS in Practice at The Loddon School

The assessment of pupils’ learning needs and the analysis of the reasons for restrictive behaviour are designed to enable the development of targets that help the pupils learn alternative strategies to meet their needs, thus reducing restrictive behaviour and increasing lifestyle opportunities. This is often through communication, choice making or independent living skills.

Personalised Learning for Life

The PLLUSS approach focuses on developing skills in six key areas: -

- Communication
- Independence
- Relating and Interacting
- Transitions
- Leisure and Wellbeing
- Access to Learning

These areas include the recommendations published by the QCA: Planning, teaching and assessing the curriculum for pupils with learning difficulties: General Guidelines and Developing Skills booklets.

The Aims of PLLUSS

PLLUSS aims to develop a pupil's participation in planned activities, awareness and positive control of their surroundings, attention, co-operation and task completion.

Pupils should be given access to experience as many activities and community-based opportunities as any child would in their own home thus ensuring a broad and balanced curriculum.

The pupils need to repeat activities so that they feel secure in understanding expectations and can begin to learn. They have difficulties generalising skills or applying skills to new situations and learning opportunities, so the same skills are taught in a variety of settings and with a range of staff. Most pupils are not able to occupy themselves in a meaningful way and need adult support to engage in appropriate tasks safely.

The pupils at The Loddon School need a long-term, flexible approach to learning where small steps and achievements are celebrated and built upon and the maintenance of skills is seen to be as important as learning new skills.

Measuring Progress

Progress and improvement in learning and behaviour is regularly reviewed and evaluated. Information is collected through regular recording by all staff. Progress is reported at the pupil's review meeting and appropriate targets set in agreement with parents and professionals.

Using Supportive Strategies

Pupils are dependent on the supports provided by the staff and the environment to help them reduce anxiety and restrictive behaviour and thus feel secure enough to learn new skills.

Staff are trained to be proactive in their approach to pupils' restrictive behaviour, to avoid known situations where it might occur, to recognise early warning signs and to respond according to individual support guidelines. Many pupils need space and time when becoming upset in order to avoid an escalation, others respond to a change of staff or setting. Some behaviours might seemingly be ignored or not get a response from staff because to do so might increase aggression, anxiety or the likelihood that the behaviours will be repeated.

Many pupils have cyclical behaviours that recur at particular times of the month or year and do not seem to be affected by any external factors. When these recur, pupils are supported through them, but no new learning is attempted until the behaviour reduces again. Skills are maintained through this time and new learning is introduced when the phase has passed.

Some pupils have high levels of anxiety and need tasks to be presented in such a way that they do not feel pressurised.

Often an extra request can cause a child to become distressed and unable to cope with an activity.

Some might need to observe activities for a length of time – up to a month - before they feel confident enough or can be encouraged to join in.

Reviews

Reviews are held 5 monthly at The Loddon School to consider progress and plan the work of the next 5 months. These dates are planned a year in advance for the convenience of parents and professionals and to ensure the programme is updated regularly and consistently. These meetings are an opportunity to celebrate progress and plan the next steps in every area of development. The prepared reports will be published in a password protected area of the school website and the link e-mailed to all invitees before the review. Each person attending is asked to bring a copy with them. Key staff are happy to meet with parents and professional colleagues before the meeting if requested.

Annual Review (1981 Act) and Looked After Child reviews

It is expected that reviews are combined, i.e. “Looked After Children” reviews should link with the 5-monthly programme. The Independent Reviewing Officer from the commissioning authority will normally be present at these meetings. Parents and professional colleagues are invited to comment. Parents and Social Workers are asked to sign in agreement of the Risk Assessment and Support Guidelines for each individual.

4. Health

4.1 Approaches and Outcomes

4.1.1 Therapies

Many of our young students can find everyday activities a struggle and need a diet of communication strategies and sensory programmes to encourage interaction with people and the environment, to slowly reduce their fears and anxieties and to provide the opportunity for long term positive changes. The Loddon School has a whole school approach to a student-centred therapeutic lifestyle and school timetable, providing training for staff and weekly visits from professionals.

Our Speech and Language therapist supports the development of communication and understanding with individual students using Makaton sign language, photographs, ITC and PECS (a picture exchange communication system), in addition to delivering structured language and social skill sessions, often within a functional setting. Using Makaton and photographs of locations, activities, people and tangible items as a means of communicating a schedule, needs and preferences, works successfully across the school.

Our Occupational Therapist uses assessment methods to identify a student's difficulties in performing occupations; that is, routines, tasks or sub-tasks, and the information processing operations required for that performance. At The Loddon School, the children's independence in daily activities ranging from self-care to leisure is a priority. The assessment breaks down the skills and steps required, allows any areas of difficulty to be noted, and develops appropriate intervention strategies to be implemented by support staff, with direct support from the Occupational Therapist. The Occupational Therapist also explores and assesses the individual sensory processing needs of children, providing critical information about any sensory sensitivity or under arousal, which can often present with behavioural implications that are important to understand. The outcome of the assessment is the development of a Sensory Profile or Diet with the purpose of structuring sensory experiences as part of the students' day, so they are less likely to seek these experiences in inappropriate or harmful ways.

A Music therapist visits our well stocked music room seeing individuals who find music particularly calming. This is a child-centred intervention, with communication at its core, enabling the child to feel at all times heard and understood. It is a form of counselling or personal therapy using music as the medium. Our Aromatherapist uses massage to relax, calm and reduce tactile defensiveness with our students, some of whom also benefit enormously from a relaxing session with the Osteopath. Our Osteopath also promotes healthy eating through a successful vegetable and fruit juicing project. In addition to our qualified therapists, we have a team of staff who support the students individually and in groups. Our Art, Music and Drama team support the students' confidence and creativity; all have the opportunity to perform in our excellent end of year productions.

The Therapies department offer play and sensory exploration through toys and objects. We have a sensory room which student can access regularly. The Paddocks, is our small 'farm' where the students enjoy animal therapy in the form of animal care, riding and carting.

These sessions are motivational and low in demand, giving students the opportunity to experience a range of therapeutic activities, to participate, explore and interact, allowing them to grow, emerge and express themselves in a relaxed and fun way.

4.1.2 Health Care

Approaches

To encourage a fit and healthy lifestyle whereby a nutritional balanced diet is offered and access to physical activities is available.

The Loddon School has its own School Nurse RN (Child) who currently works part time and a full time Health Care Assistant.

Each child is registered with the local GP practice where there are male and female GP's available. The children have access to the GP through the normal appointment system when they are unwell but on most occasions the GP's will visit the school.

Any child taking prescribed medication will do so to enhance their well-being and will have frequent reviews by health professionals.

In line with the statutory care regulations for looked after children the children have 6 monthly dental and eye check-ups which take place at the school and any treatment required is accessed locally.

A Consultant Paediatrician is available to children referred through the GP.

The Living and Learning Teachers also ensure that an individual's health needs are identified and met and detailed in the child's individual review plans by working together with all school staff to promote healthy lifestyle programmes.

The Health Team, Teachers, Children's Services Managers and Team Co-ordinators ensure all aspects of the child's health are monitored and that the child's family and all professionals involved are kept up to date.

The School Nurse, Health Care Assistant, Children's Service Managers and the Training Department also organise and provide training for staff in health matters. This includes general training in administration of medications and management of conditions such as epilepsy and anaphylactic reactions.

Outcomes

- All children will be offered hepatitis A and B vaccinations (if they have not already received them) with the aim of completing this within six months of arriving at school.
- The school aim to have all children reviewed by the GP every six months, whereby medication, height and weight and general well-being would be discussed along with any concerns parents and other medical professionals may have raised.

- All Looked After Children will have an annual medical completed by a visiting paediatrician from Basingstoke Hospital. The exception to this rule being those who have reached the age of 18 years when this is no longer required.
- The School aims to have all children reviewed by the dentist every six months.
- The School aims to have all children reviewed by the optician every two years unless at that review, the optician suggests more frequent check-ups.
- The School aims to accommodate, where possible, any health-related appointments to hospitals out of placement area.

5. Staffing Matters

5.1 Organisational Structure

5.2 Management

The Loddon School was established in 1988 by Marion and Tim Cornick.

The Loddon Foundation is a registered charity, established to provide education and care for children with autism and learning disabilities and to improve the lives of all people with learning disabilities by training the people who work with them.

The Principal has overall responsibility for the running of the school. The Principal is supported by the Leadership Team, (LT) who represent each core function.

The Trustees' role is to oversee and guide the strategy of The Loddon School Company and to ensure the best interests of the children and the Charity.

Each Trustee is linked to a member of the Leadership Team to offer individual support and to focus on one particular area of the school's work, providing feedback to the Board.

Staff Professional Development

The Loddon School is fully committed to the development and training of staff, to ensure a continued positive quality of life for the children and young people who attend the school, particularly with reference to autism, positive approaches and personalised learning.

Staff are provided with the relevant training and development opportunities to enable them to become confident, competent and informed members of staff. The school ensures that staff attend the courses outlined in the Loddon School's internal training programme.

Learning events are classified into several categories:

Orientation Day and a 4-day (classroom-based) induction training for all staff members, plus 4 weeks shadowing and supervision for each new member of staff by individual Mentors.

A mandatory training path for new staff members to undertake including relevant vocational qualifications for job roles.

Team learning events where teams who work together learn together, so ensuring a consistent approach for pupils across the school. Team learning events focus on the needs of specific pupils and the expertise required by staff to best meet those needs. Staff also attend additional learning events to update their skills to ensure legal requirements are met.

Specific learning support generated by career path or personal development profile and requirements

5.3 Regular Supervision of Staff

5.3.1 Supervision of Staff - Care Education and Health

All staff who work as part of the Children's Services Department are provided with regular supervision and are supported and guided to fulfil their roles, providing a high-quality service for the children. Supervisions are provided by line managers who are appropriately qualified and experienced staff. Supervision, training and support is available for newly appointed line managers. Records of supervision are kept by managers and all staff have their performance individually and formally appraised annually.

The Loddon School is committed to the personal development of all staff and regularly support staff to further themselves by undertaking external training opportunities.

The Loddon School's internal rolling learning programme for staff is constantly under review and development to increase the staff's knowledge and skill, which ultimately benefits the children and young people.

Each employee has their own record of learning and the responsibility for maintaining these will be with the employee and the training department.

The Loddon School offers training to external agencies through the Loddon Training and Consultancy department.

Experience

The five longest standing members of staff have worked at Loddon for 22+ years. Thirty further staff have worked between 10-22 years spread across all departments and many of these are also senior managers.

All teachers have the necessary qualifications (QTS, Cert Ed) in addition to receiving a variety of training in a diverse range of subjects relevant to pupils' needs.

Children's Services Managers hold a variety of care or health-related qualifications, including RMA and Leadership and Management awards and receive the same training opportunities as the teaching staff.

Some of the newer staff may not have previous relevant experience but we have a comprehensive training and development programme which focuses on meeting the children's very special needs.

Range of Qualifications

The school has an accredited vocational qualification (NVQ Centre) and onsite team of assessors and internal verifiers. Staff are supported to undertake and achieve the following qualifications:

Children's Workforce Diploma (Social Care pathway)/Diploma for Residential Childcare
Level 3 Certificate in Management/Level 2 Team Leading Level 3 Certificate in supporting teaching and learning in Schools
Level 5 Diploma in Leadership in Health and Social Care and Children and Young People's Services

Other opportunities include Level 3 Certificate in Assessing Vocational and learning and development qualifications

In accordance with regulatory requirements, staff commence on the DRC on completing their probationary induction period.

5.4 Contact Details

5.4.1 Complaints Concerns and Worries

The School operates a formal complaints procedure, which ensures that any formal complaint or issue of concern raised externally is dealt with promptly and with full investigation. All such complaints are managed by the Leadership Team of The School and are responded to in full within 20 working days. A full report of all complaints is presented to the Board of Trustees.

Parents are asked to contact the School and to speak with any of the senior staff if they have any concerns or worries about their child's health, learning, care or well-being.

We aim to provide a positive and open working environment where we can share concerns

Similarly, The School has a robust procedure in place which enables staff to raise any concerns or worries they might have with regard to any aspect of School life and the care of the children. Again, this procedure is managed by the Leadership Team. The School's Complaints and Compliments Policy and Procedure are available to access via the School's website.

The Loddon School has a Designated Safeguarding Lead and 3 Designated Deputies.

All complaints are reported to the Trustees for comment and to ensure positive improvements in policy and procedure within The School as applicable.
